

SITE PLANNING

Cleanup Coordinator

(Sunday PM after close of Annual Session)

COORDINATOR

Cleanup formally begins Sunday afternoon after lunch ends (1:30 p.m.). Some people may want to start as soon as they finish eating, so they can leave sooner. In some years the tables and chairs in the tents and chairs around the lawn have been stacked and placed along the drive way, ready to be picked up in the time between when Sunday meeting for worship ends and lunch begins.

There is a signup sheet for cleanup, however a certain portion of people who are willing to do a few tasks will not sign up because they might feel that this commits them to stay until the end.

Make arrangements or verify that people with pickup trucks will be available to move things from the meetinghouse area to the Clear Creek House storage shed. Two trucks are helpful. In the past Dick Ashdown and Grayce Mesner have had their trucks available, but you need to make sure they or their trucks will be around for cleanup.

In 2015, the tasks were divided up into a lists of 2-4 tasks, written on post-it notes and put on the cleared registration table. People then took a post-it note with them to do the tasks. When the tasks were done the post-it notes were brought back with items checked off as completed. Checked-off notes were placed in a “done” bowl. The overall coordinator/cleanup coordinator walked around the campus verify that things got done. This process enabled people to pitch-in by doing a quick task, especially those who wanted to leave soon after lunch. Since these were laid out before the beginning of lunch, some people were able to start doing tasks before the end of lunch. The Site Cleanup Individual Checklists file contains sheets that can be printed and cut up for this purpose (the Administrative Coordinator handles the printing and assembling them on the table. As a courtesy, tasks for Food Sunday Cleanup (in the kitchen and some things in the dining room) are included in this file. The Coordinator of Food Sunday Cleanup will still oversee these items being done.
